

You Said, We Did

Feedback and Actions from the Academic Year 2024-25

Where are past issues of current journals?

What we did:

- Improved signage in the New Journals section to indicate where past issues are kept.

HDMI to USB-C cables for the docking stations

What we did:

- Purchased 5 cables: 2 are permanently in the library space and the other 3 can be borrowed from the office.

More docking stations!

What we did:

- Added 2 new monitors, bringing the total to 8.

Extended access at weekends

What we did:

- The default undergraduate access hours were extended in the previous academic year. This was in response to feedback presented to the Committee for the Library and Scholarly Communication, and the request was taken forward and approved by senior management.
- Part III students' request for a further extension to default access hours has not been approved, but Part III students have been advised on how to request extended hours on an individual basis.

Standing desks!

What we did:

- Added a standing desk convertor to the library space.

Recycling for pens!

What we did:

- Presented this proposal to the Committee for the Library and Scholarly Communication.
- Currently exploring options.

More comfortable seating!

What we did:

- Highlighted the request at the Committee for the Library and Scholarly Communication, and subsequently discussed with senior management.
- It has been agreed that chairs can be replaced in phases; options are currently being considered.

A library cat or fish!

What we did:

- Smiled! We'd love a library pet too, but sadly this isn't viable.
- Added animal origami so users can make (very quiet) study buddies instead.

More beanbag chairs!

What we did:

- Purchased 2 more beanbag chairs, bringing our total to 6.

More scrap paper!

What we did:

- Introduced an in-office system to set aside scrap paper more effectively.
- Started checking scrap paper levels in both our stashes daily.
- Added an additional stash for the revision period in Easter Term.
